

TRAINING

Introduction to ISO 14000

The impact we have on the environment is becoming increasingly high profile, both in our domestic and commercial lives. For this reason many companies within both manufacturing and service sectors are having to demonstrate their environmental credentials through compliance with standards such as ISO 14001. This course is tailored to your company's needs and aims to communicate to all levels of staff not only the importance of the standard but also the ways in which they can help your company achieve its goal.

Course Duration: Half a day or 1 Day (depending on content)
Venue: Customer Premises or a location of your choice

Course Content:

- History of Quality Management Systems.
- Basic Requirements - Procedures, Training & Auditing (internal & external)
- Responsibility of the Employee
- Company Policies & Procedures.
- How to address questions from auditors & assessors
